

SUGGESTS METHODS OF LIVESTOCK CARE

Specialists Make Report on Study Resulting from Drouth-Hurt Farms.

By International News Service
COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 19.—Definite suggestions on means of caring for livestock on drouth-hurt farms in Ohio have come from the meeting of crop and livestock specialists called by Director H. C. Rammower of the Ohio State university extension service. The committee includes H. D. Lewis, C. R. Arnold, J. E. McClinton, C. L. Blackman and L. A. Kaufman has submitted its report.

For meeting on the committee suggested erection of silos whenever possible and the planting of sorghum hay next fall. The silos are to receive silage from the corn fields to provide roughage for this winter to carry over until next year's early crops are harvested, and the sorghum, the committee suggested, may be sown where grass seedlings completely failed, which is the case in many sections of Ohio.

Sorghum hay is an excellent emergency crop, the committee said; it is palatable and yields well and can be sown in the spring when other crops fail. When alfalfa and clover in the rotation supply enough roughage the committee does not recommend sorghum because cost of production normally is higher than for other two legume crops. This hay is about as valuable as alfalfa for feeding cattle, the committee says.

For fall pasturage, and for pasturing early next spring, the committee recommends the use of rye if and when the soil is put in working condition by rains. If planted in August or September, and moisture is right, good fall pasturage will result, the committee advises. Wheat also may be used for this same purpose but its growth will unlikely be as vigorous as that of rye, and it also is subject to injury from Hessian fly.

LaRue Youth Will Play in State Band

LARUE, Aug. 19.—Lowell Secord has been chosen from the LaRue High school to play in the all-star band at the State fair this year. Members are called in to camp at the State fair grounds Aug. 21 for a week's practice. Secord is a tuba player, the son of Mr. and Mrs. V. O. Secord. J. W. Walworth of LaGrange, Ind., is director of the band.

How to Make Iced Tea

1. Scald out a crockery tea-pot and while it is warm put in a teaspoonful of SALADA TEA for every glass required.
2. Pour on fresh boiling water (be sure it is "bubbling" boiling); allow it to steep for five minutes.
3. Pour the infusion into an open bowl or glass pitcher and thoroughly chill by standing on ice or in refrigerator.
4. When serving add lemon and sugar to taste.

CATHOLIC KNIGHTS MEET

By The Associated Press
TOLEDO, O., Aug. 19.—High mass this morning followed by a business and final session at 1:30 when officers were to be installed was to close the twenty-first triennial convention of Ohio State council, Catholic Knights of America now in session here. The meeting opened yesterday.

Painted Cats

The country has risen in arms against the "cruelty" of a little boy and girl on the cover of a popular priced weekly magazine. The objection is that children don't do the things that these two concoct.

Yes, but little boys and girls all over the country do just the things that the artist has depicted. Right here in Marion, in the east end of the city, one small child grew tired of looking at the family cat always in the same colors. He found a brush and a can of yellow paint, and instead of doing an all-over job on the cat, painted stripes around its body and to complete the jaundiced effect, added a large dab to the tip of its tail.

This Humidity

More famous than Texas Guinan, more talked about than the drouth conditions is this thing "humidity." Is this strange word a man, woman, child, animal, foul or an "it."

This "humidity" is a condition of the air that while the thermometer stands at 85, the heat is more oppressive than when the mercury was at 102.

Webster, the old boy who worked out the dictionary idea, comes in handy in explaining this gooey condition of the air.

His idea of humidity put in words is: "Moisture; dampness; a moderate degree of wetness which is perceptible to the eye or touch, especially of the atmosphere or anything which has absorbed moisture from the atmosphere, as clothing."

People have complained of their clothes clinging to them, of feeling "sticky" all over. Science says this is humidity.

There have been more chiton stockings go to make rugs this summer than for a great many summers past, all on account of this atmospheric condition that makes the silk cling to the legs and when the knee bends, the stockings don't give, and—$1.95 is all in runners.

People complain of their skin feeling so disagreeable. It feels damp, and fanning doesn't seem to evaporate the moisture, it only makes the skin feel clammy.

There's been enough of this humidity to last for several summers.

RECEIVER FOR OHIO THEATER IS SOUGHT

Judgment of $2,763 Asked in Common Pleas Court by Daniel Gutilla.

The Ohio Theater, Inc., formerly known as the Grand Theater, was made defendant in a receivership action brought yesterday in common pleas court by Daniel Gutilla of Bellefontaine, one of the stockholders.

Gutilla claims the theater is in danger of insolvency unless the court appoints a receiver. To protect his interests, the plaintiff asks the court judgment for $2,763.87, the amount the plaintiff claims is owed to him.

Further debts of the company amount to approximately $2,000, the petition claims.

The Ohio Theater was organized

Carolina Woman Lost 47 Lbs.

In 3 Months and Feels Years Younger

"I have been taking Kruschen Salts for nearly 3 months. I have continued taking one teaspoonful in warm water every morning. I then weighed 217 pounds, was always bothered with pains in my back and lower part of abdomen and sides.

"Now I am glad to say I am a well woman, feel much stronger, years younger and my weight is 170 pounds. I do not only feel better but I look better, so all my friends say."

"I shall never be without Kruschen Salts, will never cease taking my daily dose and more than glad to highly recommend it for the great good that is in it." Mrs. S. A. Solomon, New Bern, N. C., Jan. 1930.

"P. S. You may think I am exaggerating by writing such a long letter, but truly I feel so indebted to you for putting out such wonderful salts that I cannot say enough."

A bottle of Kruschen Salts that lasts 4 weeks costs but 85 cents at Bradley's Drug Store, Henney & Cooper's and drugists the world over. Take one half teaspoon in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast—walk a little each day. Do not overeat.—Adv.

LEGION HAS HOT BATTLE

Election of President of Ohio Department Brings Spirited Campaign.

By The Associated Press
CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 18.—Ohio Legionnaires were embroiled in one of their most determined election campaigns in years as they met today to choose between Frazier Reams of Toledo and John Eldon of Cleveland for the post of state commander.

Friends of both candidates made spirited campaigns which did not end until late last night. Reams, former vice commander in the old northwest district, had the backing of the administration but determined efforts were made in behalf of Eldon, a former president of the Ohio Bar association.

Dudley A. White of Norwalk is the retiring commander.

The convention turned to business matters after a day given over to parade and contests. Fifteen thousand delegates marched in their annual parade yesterday and six bands and 20 drum and bugle corps competed for honors. The Elyria post

MANY ILLS ARE PUT TO FLIGHT BY NEW KONJOLA

Man Tells How Modern Medicine Gave Quick Relief—Gained Ten Pounds in Three Weeks.

MR. ERVIN WITT

Here, in Konjola, is a medicine of deeds, not words; of performance, not promises. Consider the experience of Mr. Ervin Witt, 528 Isabella street, Newport, Ky., who says:

"I gained ten pounds in three weeks while taking Konjola, and in that time was freed from fainting spells and swelling of legs and hands. I had severe cramps, and had to get up several times during the night. My back ached and I had to force myself through the day's work. But the first bottle of Konjola gave relief, and with the third my health troubles ceased. I am going ahead with Konjola however, and I feel that the relief will be permanent."

Konjola is the best known medicine in America simply because it makes good in cases even where all else tried has been found wanting.

Konjola is sold in Marion, Ohio, at Stump & Sons' Pharmacy, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.—Adv.

retained its championship of the state, the drum corp winning the class A title with a rating of 100.8. Massillon Post No. 221 was second with 97 and Wadsworth Post No. 170 was third with 86.8.

Kent Post No. 499 won the class B title, with Itasca Post No. 331 second and Cleveland Post No. 129 third.

The Cleveland Post No. 2 walked away with the band contest. Elyria also was first in the drum major contest, with Massillon again second and the Robert E. Bentley Post of Cincinnati, third.

State Commander White in his annual report said the Legion's membership in Ohio had been increased 3,000 and that there are now 452 posts in the state. Initial payments by the government to disabled veterans amounted to $1,000,000, he reported.

MARION CHURCHMEN TO ATTEND MEETING

Ohio Conference of Evangelical Church Under Way in Findlay.

Marion Evangelical ministers and lay delegates were planning to leave today or Wednesday morning for Findlay to attend the ninety-third annual session of the Ohio conference of the Evangelical church.

Rev. H. E. Williamson of Oakland church and Rev. J. E. Campbell of Grace church, accompanied by Rev. Clark Davis, one of the young licensed ministers of Oakland church, left this afternoon. F. O. Corey, lay delegate from Oakland church was expected to go either this afternoon or Wednesday morning.

Rev. E. Radabaugh of Calvary church and the lay delegate, Harvey Zachman, will go Wednesday morning and probably be accompanied by Rev. Irvin Kauffman of Greenwood church. G. E. Zimmer is the Greenwood church lay delegate.

Harold Dutt, who is expected to receive his license to preach while this conference is in meeting, will go from here the last of the week. Mr. Dutt is from Oakland Evangelical church.

BEAUTY CONTEST TO FEATURE FAIR HERE

"Miss Marion County" Will Be Crowned "Queen" on Last Day of Event.

A "Miss Marion County" will be crowned on the closing day of the eighth annual county fair at the fairgrounds here Sept. 9 to 12. The coronation ceremonies will be staged on Friday, Sept. 12, amid elaborate festivities. She will be attended by the second and third prize winners who will act as maids of honor, while other contestants for the title will participate as ladies-in-waiting.

A diamond ring will be awarded the winner, and other prizes will be awarded all other contestants. Girls who are entered in the contest must be more than 14 years of age, must live in Marion county and must be of good character, the committee in charge has stipulated.

D. A. Terry Honored at Banquet of Company

D. A. Terry was presented a legionnaire certificate and a legion pin from the Western & Southern Life Insurance Co. for 15 years of marked success as a salesman with the company, at a luncheon Saturday at Hotel Harding by G. C. Steward, superintendent of the Marion district.

Talks were given by C. Unger, Mansfield district superintendent, Gene Stafford, superintendent of the Fostoria district, F. W. Heukel, supervisor from the home offices at Cincinnati, and Mr. Steward. Representatives were present from Delaware, Marion, Bucyrus and Kenton.

REPORTS CASE

Health Commissioner Says One Child Stricken With Paralysis.

The first case of infantile paralysis reported in Marion county in several months was recorded at the office of Dr. N. Sifrit, city-county health commissioner.

The case is that of the three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Reold of LaRue.

Twenty-six cases of the disease were reported in the state in July, the latest state public health department bulletin just received by Dr. Sifrit, discloses.

Scarlet fever, typhoid fever, chickenpox and mumps showed greater prevalence in the state during July than for the corresponding month a year ago.

A German chemist has developed a process employing a preparation of silver for purifying large amounts of water at comparatively small expense.

Carol's reported plans, but still difficult to reconcile. Crown Prince Michael is with her.

The reports from Bucharest, added to a conference of government leaders, were expected shortly in the Roumanian capital. It was freely rumored that Carol would submit his resignation.

CRISIS NEAR IN SPAIN

Full of Pretext May Cause Trouble in Cabinet.

By International News Service. MADRID, Aug. 19.—The fall of the Spanish government today precipitated a crisis in the Spanish government, with financial minister Arguelles offering his resignation.

Premier D'Amazo Berenguer called a meeting of the cabinet to consider the situation and reportedly to accept the financial minister's resignation.

The events, whose par value average is 100 cents, yesterday closed on the Madrid stock exchange at 95 1/2 to the cent.

Changes in the Berenguer cabinet several times have been reported since the early days of March, according to an Associated Press report today.

Manuel Arguelles on March 25 was reported to have resigned, but was not accepted or disapproved among the cabinet members.

Arguelles, who was reported to have resigned, might enter the cabinet, the original lineup of the Berenguer cabinet Arguelles was minister of finance and economy and was minister of commerce.

Posse of 500 Searches for Youth in Woods

LAKE CHARLES, N. Y., Aug. 19.—Guided by bloodhounds a posse of more than 500 men searched the woods near here today for a youth who is accused of attacking a 10-year-old girl.

West Point cadets, camped near the lake, were asked to watch for the man and 60 United States Marines joined in the search.

The man is said to have invaded a girl's camp and carried off his victim. She was found unconscious later. Many camps in the vicinity were in terror today and girls were forbidden to walk in the woods without adults.

150 Committeemen Are Sent Election Notices

Dr. C. J. Nichols Wins One-Vote Victory Over Frank Harmon; Goldsmith and Winters Tied with Two Votes Each.

Certificates of election were mailed out today by the board of elections to approximately 150 persons who were elected to county central committees of the Republican and Democratic parties at last Tuesday's primary.

Dr. C. J. Nichols' one-vote victory over Frank Harmon featured in the few contests. He polled 35 votes in the first ward, precinct A, to the 37 received by Harmon for precinct committee on the Republican ticket.

In Richland township no avowed candidates were on the Democratic various spots along the western part of the project, which at present is made up of the old roadbed. Should accidents arise due to collisions with the machinery, the motorist will be liable, he declared.

Should Take Detour

Present detour signs are located at Grand avenue and at Garfield park. The one at Grand avenue is intended to shunt traffic bound for points east of the city over to Mt. Vernon avenue, from which it can go east on route 95. City drivers who want to use Center street to the corporation limits may do so but the second detour barrier at Garfield park should not be passed, Batdorf said.

Another obstruction to motorists who disobey the second sign is the new bridge being built over Grave Creek, a rough run-around having been provided for use of farmers living nearby and for workers on the road, according to the superintendent.

WORKERS FIND TEN MORE BODIES IN MINE

Blakeburn Disaster Death Toll Mounts to Thirteen.

By The Associated Press. BLAKEBURN, W. Va., Aug. 19.—Ten bodies were found last night in the Blakeburn mine, where 45 workers were entombed in an explosion last Wednesday. Three bodies previously had been recovered.

Rescue workers returning to the pit head just before midnight announced the bodies were located on No. 1 store. Other bodies had been found near the pit portal.

Rescuers had penetrated quite a distance from where they were temporarily halted by Friday's fire. No attempts were made to identify the dead men, workers said, with cave-ins blocking the slope, it might be several days before the bodies could be brought out.

BETHLEHEM COUNSEL FIGHT AUDIT REPORT

Hassel Tippit of Ernest & Ernst Still on Stand Today.

By International News Service. YOUNGSTOWN, O., Aug. 19.—The attack on the details of the Ernest & Ernst audit which resulted in the anti-merger contention that the terms of consolidation between Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. and Bethlehem Steel Corp. are unfair to Sheet & Tube stockholders was continued by Bethlehem attorneys today as trial of the injunction suit against the merger was resumed in common pleas court here.

After a full day under cross-examination yesterday, Hassel Tippit of Ernest & Ernst, anti-merger accountants, was scheduled to resume the witness stand today for further questioning on the technical details of the accounting and the auditing of the books of the two steel companies.

Tippit admitted that no allowance was made in comparing the accounts of the two concerns, for differences in policy on the charging off of maintenance and repairs.

Trial of the injunction suit was resumed yesterday after a week's adjournment due to the death of Myron C. Wick Jr., co-plaintiff, and the probating of his will.

according to the Ohio Fuel Gas Co., will deprive Marion gas users of a satisfactory service until the question is settled, city council is sponsoring a public meeting of citizens of the community and the representatives of the gas company Wednesday at 8 p. m. in the common pleas courtroom.

President of Council E. E. Merkel said today that members of the council would not take any part in the discussion as council members, although they may participate as gas users and citizens of the municipality. No official action will be taken at the meeting regardless of the trend of the discussion.

Speakers will be present at the meeting to discuss the question from both the angle of the citizen and gas user and the gas company. Several organizations of the city and numerous individuals will be represented at the discussion. Merkel, speaking in behalf of the council today urged that every gas user in Marion interested in the settlement of the long drawn out rate controversy attend the discussion tomorrow night.

Tolson said that overthrow of the Republican party would be a "cataclysm" because the party had a "definite, well considered administrative and legislative program which it is carrying forward to completion despite the determined obstructive tactics of the Democrats."

Shouse said farm products had declined in price steadily since passage of the farm act; he contrasted the Hoover 1928 campaign speeches assuring continuation of prosperity under Republican rule, with the unemployment and depressed business conditions within the year. He blamed the president for not warning against speculation while secretary of commerce and president-elect.

He said President Hoover could have checked the tariff "raid" at any time during the long period the revision was under congressional consideration but had failed to speak the word which would have "corrected the intolerable features of this unholy and excessive piece of legislation."

after cell until they found Moore. The negro, apparently realizing his fate, went to his death without a word.

Moore was given a preliminary hearing yesterday afternoon on a charge of assaulting Ethel Morgan, 5, and Lucille Morgan, 7, little daughters of an Edgecombe county farmer. He waived examination and was ordered held for trial without bond.

Sheriff W. E. Barden, of Edgecombe county, ordered the negro placed in the county jail pending his trial at the September term of superior court.

Notified as soon as the men drove off, the sheriff went in search of the lynchers. He reached the negro's home after the mob had dispersed and found the body.

Watson said that none of the men in the mob had been recognized. This was the first lynching in North Carolina since 1921.

WYOMING INTEREST CENTERS IN SENATE

Western State Voters To Cast Ballots in Primary Election Today.

By International News Service. CHEYENNE, Wyo., Aug. 19.—Wyoming voters will cast their ballots in the primary election today following one of the most heated campaigns in the political history of the state on the part of Republican candidates.

Both political and public interest is centered about the contest for the Republican nomination for the senate. There are four aspirants seeking the nomination for the long and short terms. The short term of the term of the late Senator Francis E. Warren.

Those seeking the nomination are Robert D. Carey, former governor; Charles E. Winter, former congressman; William C. Deming, Cheyenne publisher and former president of the U. S. civil service commission; and W. L. Walls, former attorney general and an outspoken "wet."

The Democratic candidate for the U. S. senate is Harry H. Schwartz of Casper, former chairman of the Democratic state central committee.

Governor Frank C. Emerson is opposed by W. H. Edelman of Sheridan, state treasurer, in the race for the gubernatorial nomination. Jessie Miller is the Democratic gubernatorial candidate.

"BOYS OF '98" SWING INTO ANNUAL PARADE

Feature of "Preparedness Day" Program at War Convention.

By International News Service. PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 19.—To the stirring martial airs of '98 which carried them into battle against the Spanish rulers of Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines, the "boys of '98" swung into line today for the "big parade" of their annual national convention.

The parade was booked as the feature of the "preparedness day" program of the United Spanish War veterans thirty-second encampment which is now in session here.

Tunes of "There'll Be a Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight," "Goodbye Dolly," "I Love You," "Internationale," and the strains of "Dixie" sounded as the vanguard of the parade formed.

All marchers were clad in the picturesque uniforms of khaki and blue they wore in '98 during the Cuban and Philippine campaigns.

DISEASE SPREADS Close City Swimming Pools As Precautionary Measure.

By International News Service. PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 19.—Disease steps to prevent further spread of the wave of spinal meningitis sweeping the city resulted in all of the city-owned swimming pools being ordered closed today.

Seven children in all have succumbed to the dreaded malady and fully a dozen others are known to be suffering from the disease.

City health officials still insist, however, there is no cause for alarm and that the pools are merely being closed as a precautionary measure and not because they had been found to be unsanitary.

Claim Former Sing Sing Inmate Took Girl from Pittsburgh to Washington.

By The Associated Press. CLEVELAND, Aug. 19.—An alleged trip from Pittsburgh to Washington with a 21-year-old girl may send Bert N. Garstein, 48, an advertising solicitor, back to Sing Sing prison for the rest of his life.

Garstein was being held today under $7,000 bond pending a hearing on a Mann act charge. If he is returned to Washington and convicted, he will be sent back to Sing Sing prison as a parole violator, federal authorities said.

58-Year-Old Guess on Population Still Stands

By The Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—A prophecy made 58 years ago concerning the spot at which the 1930 center of population of the United States would be found was pointed to day by Clarence P. Hatcher, census geographer, as the most accurate estimate available at this stage of the computations.

Underlining, on the basis of announced returns for the entire country, to trace the movement of that mythical balance point from its 1920 resting place, Hatcher said at this point of the calculations he could not improve on the old figure.

In 1922, he said, a brilliant but little known mathematician, Julius Krieger, estimated the center of the thirty-ninth parallel of latitude, and worked there 126 miles westward between 1870 and 1900 and an added 50 miles between 1900 and 1930.

ELECTRIC RATE CUT PROPOSED TO CITY

New Ordinance Placed Before Council by C. D. & M.; Schedules Listed.

posed schedule, represent a reduction to the small consumer, such as merchants doing a limited amount of credit lighting. To the large consumer the rate remains about the same. The new commercial rate is divided into two schedules for customers having a demand less than 3,000 watts and for those who use more than 3,000 watts. Both schedules operate on a sliding scale between eight and three cents a kilowatt hour. The minimum rate is $1.

Charges are offered a special optional rate under the new ordinance, operating on a sliding scale between eight and four cents a kilowatt hour. This is practically the same as the rate now in effect. The minimum rate is $1.

A cooking, heating and refrigeration rate, for use where the domestic rate is not feasible, is fixed at three cents a kilowatt hour for any amount of current, with a minimum bill of $2.50.

A small saving will accrue to public schools and libraries under the proposed new rate which specifies a flat rate of five cents a kilowatt hour with no minimum charge.

Window Rate Unchanged

No change is made in the flat rate charge for window lighting and similar uses, used only in instances where the lights are left burning until a certain hour of the night and then shut off by company employees. The rate is one and one-fourth cents for each watt of the total load. The minimum bill is $1.25.

The alternating power rate affecting garages, small factories, shops, printer companies and similar concerns means a negligible reduction to the consumer. The rate varies between a minimum of 82 1/2 cents with a minimum of $2.

A new clause in the ordinance provides a special rate for a very important. The rate is five cents plus a customer charge of $1.25 and a demand charge of 62 1/2 cents for each horsepower connected.

Temporary service charges, principally for carnivals and circuses, are the same under the new ordinance. The charge is 10 cents a kilowatt hour plus connection charges.

Breakdown service, which has no local application at present, will be supplied concerns having their own power plants, but which desire an emergency line. The charge is $3 a month plus an extra charge for all current used.

A large saving of between 20 and 30 per cent, will accrue to city hospitals and any future hospital of the state or any of its political subdivisions through rates of the proposed ordinance. The lighting rate is four cents a kilowatt hour with an additional charge for power energy.

Street Lights Cheaper

Taken as a whole, the street lighting ordinance represents a decrease from the rates now in effect here. Slight reductions are made in overhead street lights, while ornamental lights supported by standards remain unchanged.

Since no mention of the rates for traffic and night lights was made in the street lighting ordinance, it was tabled with the domestic and commercial rate schedule to be completed by the committee.

RUSSIA DOES NOT want silver hoarded or anything done to interfere with credit or to monopolize money. Four men convicted of hoarding gold were shot dead, which is the soviet method of showing that it is displeased.

IN FLORIDA THREE men are released under bail accused of a plot to hire somebody to kill Doyle E. Carlton, governor of the state.

The modern gang idea of hiring somebody else to do your killing is spreading. Chinese of New York have adopted it in their long wars.

When the tong gentlemen became impatient and resumed shooting on their own accord, Mr. Mulrooney, the new and efficient police commissioner, and District Attorney Crain yesterday notified the Chinese that they would give them one week in which to stop shooting each other, or they would all be deported.

It might be a good idea to adopt that plan in connection with others not Chinese.

WORKING IN A tunnel under construction near Madrid, a Spanish workman, Antonio Camacho, 34 years old, saw that a case of dynamite, with many workers near it, had caught fire. Saying nothing, he carried it out of the tunnel and was blown to atoms. The other workmen were saved.

His name won't be remembered for five minutes but it is just as well to print it, at least.

No other name will be remembered either, for that matter, when this earth is a million or two years older.

THE NATION MAY BE much better off for the recent sweeping out in Wall street. But Wall street and the farmers don't yet know it. The stock market has been in the doldrums and yesterday cotton dropped $2 a bale, to the lowest price since 1921, below 11 cents a pound.

Copper, cotton and other products cannot remain indefinitely at a price lower than the cost of production. But that truth doesn't help those compelled to sell now.

SEE PLOT AS MOVE TO CONTROL LIQUOR

Attribute Alleged Plot Against Government To Fight for Booze, Gambling Business.

By International News Service. JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Aug. 19.—While three prominent men were at liberty under bond of charges of conspiracy to monopolize Governor Doyle E. Carlton, authorities here today attributed the alleged plot in an effort to gain control of the liquor traffic and gambling business along the "golden" east coast of Florida.

The accused men, each under $500 bond pending a preliminary hearing next Monday, are: Fred O. Ehrhardt, editor and publisher of the Florida State News, of Tallahassee; Frank Hinkle, Duval county politician; and Henry Holcomb, Jacksonville realtor.

Sheriff W. B. Cahoon, of Duval county, who led the investigation into the purported conspiracy and announced its discovery following the arrest of the trio, declared today:

"I think the idea was to get control of gambling and liquor on the east coast. We thought the case against the three men was strong enough to get warrants to that effect."

Sheriff Cahoon, however, flatly refused to divulge his evidence against the men, or to discuss the nature of the alleged plot.

A young woman, Betty Ann Schwartz, 19-year-old blonde of Chicago, who was arrested early yesterday as a suspect in the case, was still held by authorities pending full investigation of the affair. Sheriff Cahoon declined to say in what way she was involved.

Ehrhardt led the two other men in emphatic denials of their guilt.

RADIO SET WORKS CLEVELAND, Aug. 19.—The police radio system was given the credit here today for the speedy capture of two burglars who attempted to escape with valuable brass fittings from a brass foundry last night. Receiving word through his radio set that burglars had entered the foundry, Acting Detective Sergeant Otto Diskowski and his cruising squad rushed to the scene and in three minutes had taken the two men into custody.

The November Battlefront.

Tuesday's primary vote laid out November's election issues clear and clean. The most important from a publicity standpoint will be prohibition. The contest between Senator Roscoe C. McCulloch and Robert J.
Bulkeley, his Democratic opponent, will resolve itself inevitably into that form in the public's mind. It must not be overlooked, however, that another important principle is involved—support of the Hoover administration by Ohio's junior senator.

Senator McCulloch supports the administration and the administration is dry. Bulkeley knows where his voting strength lies and is an avowed, crusading wet. Just what the function of George White, Democratic gubernatorial nominee, will be in the race is rather hazy right now. White, most inconveniently for Bulkeley, is a dry.

Candidate Bulkeley has attacked Senator
McCulloch for his vote on the high tariff measure and can be expected to criticize also his affirmative vote on the Parker nomination.
It is well to remember this fact, however:
Senator McCulloch, appointed by a Republican governor to a senate which was bogged down by party bolters, chose to stand by the administration which needed his aid. He has a good defense.

Placating the Japanese.

The question of Japanese immigration to the United States has been a stirring one since 1906, when the situation on the Pacific coast became so acute as to result in agitation for an exclusion act. There are positive indications at present that the question is coming to life again, this time as agitation
to place Japanese immigration on a quota basis. Under the Coolidge administration congress passed a law excluding Japanese from this country. It was a long-delayed response to the Pacific coast agitation started back in 1906.

At a recent meeting of the Williamstown
Institute of Politics, Professor George Hubbard Blakelee of Clark university recommended that such action be taken and the matter was semi-officially brought up at the farewell banquet in Japan to W. K. Castle, Jr., special ambassador to Japan from the United States during the London naval conference. News dispatches from Japan reflect consistently that exclusion is a pressing issue with the Japanese, as it would be with the citizens of any nation arbitrarily barred from entering another.

Representative Albert Johnson, of Washington, chairman of the house committee on immigration and naturalization, has estimated, in connection with the agitation for lifting the exclusion stigma from Japanese immigration, that only 190 Japanese would be eligible for entrance under the quota plan.
This would be an increase of ninety over the minimum of 100 allowed under the exclusion act. Representative Johnson falls to add, however, that no revision of the clause confining immigration to aliens qualified to become American citizens is being considered. His suggestion as to the slight benefit which would result from a change
of policy has no significance at all, therefore, since only Japanese subjects who belong to the Caucasian or African negro races would be eligible.

Strictly speaking, Japan is more interested in the principle of exclusion than the inability of her citizens to take up residence in this nation. She has maintained this attitude since 1907 when the so-called gentlemen's agreement was reached with the United States. This remarkable agreement, which consisted only of a series of letters and documents, provided that the Japanese government would refuse to issue passports for Japanese to leave their country to settle in the United States if congress would forbear
from specifically forbidding immigration from Japan. Exceptions were made for laborers and non-laborers formerly resident in this country, parents, wives and children of Japanese already living in the United States, and "settled agriculturists." There is a diversity of opinion on whether Japan lived up to this agreement or not, but it prevailed
until the passage of the exclusion act in 1924.

There seems little doubt that the sense of justice of the American people, considered as a whole, demands removal of the exclusion provision insult to the Japanese. If placing them under the quota plan, with additional
provisions allowing them to become citizens,
would do it, there could be no more meaningful contribution to continued amity between the two nations.

His rifle having jammed just as a grizzly bear charged him, Hans Iverson, a trapper of Indian Point creek in British Columbia, was saved by his police dog which took the offensive and kept the bear busy warding off
its attacks till his master succeeded in loading his rifle and dispatching it. Just another interesting bit for the dog lovers.

Aviation.

There are considerably more than 20,000 persons engaged directly in the piloting and conditioning of airplanes in the United States, according to a department of commerce survey which shows conditions as of June 30. The report, recently published, placed the number of planes licensed and identified at 9,773. There were 13,041 licensed pilots of all classes and 8,842 mechanics.

It is an interesting glimpse of a growing profession. It becomes, of course, still more interesting when it is realized that for every licensed pilot, for every accredited mechanic
there are probably two others trying to achieve the same rating. Also of special significance is the percentage of pilots holding private licenses—four of every ten pilots
in the United States. The most modern way to travel claims almost as many enthusiasts
among those who can afford it for the sake of convenience as those who seek to develop its commercial possibilities.

At the time the survey was made there were 261 women pilots in the United States.
Twenty of them held transport pilot licenses,
thirty-four limited commercial licenses, one
an industrial license and 206 private licenses. There were also four women mechanics.

California led all states in the number of licensed and identified aircraft, and licensed pilots and mechanics, with New York taking second place. No other state approached the totals in the three classifications as they were tabulated in these two states.

It is doubtful that flying ever can be made
fool proof, but the number of people engaged in the profession of aviation indicates that something is being done toward making fliers fool proof. Unlike an automobile driver, an aviator must demonstrate his ability to operate his conveyance before he is trusted with human life. And unlike some automobile mechanics, an airplane mechanic must never make a mistake. In its infancy aviation is far better balanced than motoring in this respect.

A Chicago husband and wife were held up and the latter robbed of $6,000 worth of jewels as they were entering their home upon their return from attendance at a play. One of these days, people of means will discover that the only safe place for valuable jewels
is in a roign of lawlessness such as obtains at present in a safe deposit vault.

Paris is all worked up, seemingly, over a story attributed to the recent soviet charge
d'affaires in Paris, to the effect that the Germans have erected great plants in Russia from which they are turning out airplanes, ordnance, explosives and poison gas
for their own use. Despite the over-millitarization of Germany before the World war,
we have too much faith in German sense to believe the Germans would ever trust soviet Russia to that extent.

Potash and Ohio Soils.

BY J. H. GALBRAITH.

It is a singular fact that the first profitable product that the Ohio pioneer got from his land was the thing that he has been buying over zinc and paying a high price for
in order to preserve the productivity of his soil. It was potash or black salt, the latter being the trade name for the product in the early days. The same method was used in all the new states, but it was particularly true of Ohio because of its being so densely wooded when the pioneer came to it.

The trees must be removed, and timber
having no value outside of the building of the home and the fences, the fallen trees
must be gotten rid of in the easiest way, and that way was to burn them. "Log rollings"
were among the first diversions of the pioneers. They assembled at the settlement of one of their number who had many trees
felled and cut into logs, and with fun and frolic they rolled them into heaps with brush
obtained so as to make combustible piles
when dried out. From the ashes the black salt was secured. Thrown into large leaches, water was poured upon them, which, as it
seeped through to the trough below dissolved
out the carbonate of potash and a dark lye was caught in vessels placed beneath it. This lye boiled down, the potash salt crystallized, and found ready sale at the stores. In some of the towns ashes were established whose proprietors bought both ashes and black salts which they refined into pearl ash. This is still done in Canada and the product is used in making flint glass and soap.

Potash is one of the elements in soils that are necessary to plant growth, and the depleted soils of Ohio need it badly now.
Complete fertilizers contain it, but its cost is too great to permit as liberal a use as is indicated. Potassium never occurs free. Germany has the best deposits of it and the rest of the world is practically dependent upon her for it. The fact gave Germany a distinct advantage in the World war, for it is extensively used in making explosives.

The writer remembers when a boy in the country, operating a lye-leach for lye to use
in making hard and soft soap for the laundry purposes in the farm house. There being little demand for the "side meat," of the pork
now used in making bacon, it was used with the lye in this soap making.

SQUIRT-GUN OR FIRE-HOSE?

A cow in Connecticut drank a pail of paint
which had been left on the ground by a party employed in the United States geological survey. The owner sued the government. The matter was carried through congress and the claim allowed. It cost $1,000 to validate a claim for $100. Was this good politics or good business?

The eminent publicist, Dr. Charles Austin Beard, does not think it was and says so in his article on "Squirt-Gun Politics" in Harper's magazine. He offers examples of the vast number of petty bills
which absorb the attention of congress and prevent it from having ample time to consider really first rate issues. The tariff and power problem suffer when congress is considering whether or not it will permit a Crow Indian to sell $100 worth of land.

Beard proposes to remedy this abuse of triviality
by transferring the disposition of more and more business to the administrative departments. In the case of such instances as the cow who drank the paint he would take the matter entirely from congress and let the proper administrative head settle the issue. In more important cases the administrative department would take action and report it to congress. This settlement of the case would be valid unless countermanded by congress
in, say, sixty days.

In the case of still more crucial problems the administrative heads might be allowed to recommend the solution to be adopted, but it would not go into operation unless accepted by a joint resolution of congress. The handling of such matters would be facilitated by developing the habit of summoning members of the cabinet to sit in on congressional sessions when the particular issue was under discussion.

Dr. Beard's proposals are undoubtedly sound.
The cynic will ask if we could expect congress
to be intelligent with all the time in the world on its hands. At least we may answer that more time would not reduce the intellectual powers of congress. It would have more opportunity to apply those which exist to Muscle Shoals and the tariff schedules if it was not absorbed with considering the grant of $100 for damages to property done
during the civil war. It could toy with fire-hose rather than the squirt-gun.—Columbus Citizen.

Sights of Paris.

BY TEMPLE MANNING.

Visitors to Paris generally make first for the Louvre when beginning their round of sightseeing.
The Louvre is Paris' most important public building. At one time the residence of the rulers of France, it is now a museum wherein are found
some of the choicest of the world's works of art
and reminders of the days when royalty ruled the land with a prodigal hand—and hang the expense!

The building as it stands today, owes its existence to Francis I. Under this king and his successors Pierre Lesot built those parts of the wings which are recognized as among the finest examples of the Renaissance style of architecture.
Louis XIII and Louis XIV are responsible for the other buildings surrounding the noble courtyard. Catherine de Medici and Henry IV added
the Grande Galerie and the Pavillon Henry IV, likewise noted for the beauty of their design. The Emperor Napoleon III added two wings to the already massive building.

The Louvre originally was a fortress in the time of Philip Augustus, but was demolished by Francis I. In the life of the building as a fortress many political prisoners ended their days. It was to one of these dungeons that the traitor Ferrand,
Count of Flanders, was dragged behind the king.
While the French people are strong for democracy,
nevertheless they have a deep reverence for the memory of their royal families. One room, which attracts visitors because of the romantic history
connected with the French revolution, contains the furnishings used by the ill-starred Marie Antoinette.

During the World war, in the early days, when it looked as if the Germans might repeat their performance of 1870 and capture Paris, there was a great scurrying to safeguard the priceless works of art housed in the Louvre. Many of them were taken out and buried. Others were removed to the south of France when the government moved to Bordeaux. Even when the danger from this quarter was removed a strong guard was kept around the Louvre and the museum was closed to visitors
during the war.

The Palais de Justice is another of the monuments of Paris. Here the law courts are located.
It was in the old prison connected with the Palais
de Justice that Marie Antoinette and other celebrated victims of the wrath of the revolution were incarcerated and taken forth to the scaffold.

Then, of course, there is the Hotel des Invalides, located on the left bank of the Seine, and in which rests the tomb of Napoleon I. It was in the courtyard of the Invalides that the first ceremonies participated in by General Pershing and American troops in France took place July 4, 1917.

Be Careful of Fly Bites.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Some time ago I told you of a little known disease called "tularemia." Recently I have had letters telling of the appearance of the disease
and asking for information.

First the symptoms and later the germs of tularemia were discovered in the ground squirrel
about twenty years ago. Not long after that cases of infection of humans were reported.

Of this disease the rabbit is the chief carrier
with which man comes in contact. Wounds made while cleaning diseased rabbits may become infected. Fortunately comparatively few rabbits have the disease.

The germ of tularemia is carried by the deerfly
and the woodtick, and may be transmitted to man through the bites of these pests. If you are spending time outdoors in communities where tularemia
is known to exist all bites should be carefully watched.

In handling rabbits the infectious material may be carried to the eye. When this happens it may cause "conjunctivitis," an inflammation of the lining membrane of the eyelids and the covering of the eyeball.

Usually the trouble begins with a papule or pimple of the skin. This develops near a wound which becomes infected while cleaning a rabbit. It may appear at the point of the bite made by a woodtick or a deerfly.

From two days to a week passes before the wound becomes very sore. By this time chills and fever have developed. There is also aching throughout the body, with loss of weight, prostration, and sometimes delirium.

The acute stage of the illness lasts from two to four weeks. During this time the site of the original found ulcerates. The nearby glands become swollen and may even suppurate. There is considerable fever.

Following the attack there is slow recovery.
The period of convalescence may cover from two months to six months, or even longer.

The percentage of deaths from this disease is small. Happily there seem to be no lasting ill effects.

Cases have been reported that at first seemed to be pneumonia, typhoid fever, or blood-poisoning from some other cause. The true nature of the disease was determined by the discovery of the germ.

Science will find a way to protect against tularemia. In the meantime, should there be cases in your neighborhood you must take unusual pains to disinfect any wound you may get under suspicious circumstances.—Copyright, 1930, by

Twenty Years Ago.

It was Friday, August 19,
It was feared that Frederick Schmidt, a prosperous farmer residing four and a half miles southeast of LaRue, would die of injuries received in a runaway accident on the Essex-LaRue pike.

It was announced that real estate valued
at $1,079,940, and consisting of churches,
school houses and federal, county and city
buildings in the county, was free of taxation.
Leo J. Ranch, twenty-five, a Big Four brakeman, was found badly injured and unconscious about a mile and a half east of LaRue. He was found to be suffering from concussion of the brain.

The Star reported that Mrs. F. W. Mayer
had been elected president of the German M.
E. Missionary society, the night before.
Policeman Jerome Hochstetter died from the effects of a gunshot wound received the night before in the Erie yards while attempting to arrest a thug.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. MINTYRE.

New York, Aug. 19.—Youthful Jed Harris,
flashing vividly across Broadway horizons a few years ago, is not the only No. 1 boy along the Kialto. The newest "hope" is Chester Erskin, who, just turned twenty-six,
is making older producers snap into biddles.
Like the unshaven Harris, Erskin is one of the pale dreamers triumphant over the bitterness of early poverty. His face is etched with a tiny acid wrinkle or so as memento
of the travail. Two years ago he was occupying a bench in Bryant park and using the public library reading room as an office.
Indeed, the charity ward in a local hospital records he was a patient for, malnutrition. But today he has ascended the throne of the great Charles Frohman and will direct
activities of the artistic Empire theater in succeed Gilbert Miller.

Mr. Miller is enamored of British life and anxious to confine production efforts to London. Erskin's expression has the fire of the
don. Erskin's expression has the fire of the zealot, but has proved him practical wit-
tal. In a year he directed three hits—"Harlem,"
"Subway Express" and "The Last Mile."
While his efforts lacked the drawing room
polish of the Frohman regime, he has supplied a raw realism the theater seldom achieves. He vamoosed from a law school in native Schenectady for the stage and acted small parts in road companies and directed repertoire failures.

At a casual glance he might be one of those studious-looking office boys so common in New York. He talks hesitatingly and with no assurance. Yet when he selects his company and begins rehearsals he is compelling and thoroughly alive.
If he succeeds, he will have accomplished
a post languishing for applicants since Frohman's passing, largely through fear of comparison. The past year, incidentally, has shown the most brilliant productions efforts
are the handwork of striplings.

New York has a white-mustached house-
to-house book agent of the old school who earns $20,000 a year canvassing among discriminating book lovers. He makes no sales talk, but travels in an automobile, leaving books he thinks might interest customers.

To my notion super salesmanship is an offshoot of studied reticence. People talked into buying what they do not want rarely return. The places I patronize are those never urging a sale. Show me an establishment handling shoddy goods and I'll show you
an over-zealous, lippy sales force, full of extravagant talk.

at it in the soft glow of a youngish moon from Central park, west and you want to be a

FLIER LANDS BURNING PLANE

Day City, Mich., Pilot Brings Blazing Ship Down from
3,000 Feet.

By The Associated Press
PONTIAC, Mich., Aug. 19 — While his four passengers, one of them a woman, protected him and himself with fire extinguishers,
Howard Rawson, 22, a Bay City, Mich., pilot, yesterday safely landed a burning airplane from a height of 3,000 feet.

Rawson, handling a cabin mono-
plane for the Aircraft Corporation,
was taking the passengers from Cleveland to Bay City, near here, Cleo Sach's and Miss Florence Davis, on the front seat, discovered the fire and called to Rawson.

When the pilot dropped looking for a landing place, Slagle, Miss Davis
and the other passengers—George Thompson and Bousfield Ward—seized
the extinguishers and kept the flames
out of the cabin.

After dropping 2,500 feet, Rawson
saw that the blaze was growing more serious and landed at once, barely missing a hedge fence. A few minutes after the five left the plane, it was wrecked by a gasoline explosion.

Except for scratches due to their
hurried exit the occupants of the plane
were unhurt. All of the passengers live in Bay City.

Blame Labor Trouble for Shovel Blast

The blast went off with a deafen-

of several cracked bearings, however,
no damage was done to the shovel.
The force of the explosion was directed into the gear box of the ma-

Veteran Suffragette Is Disappointed in Women

Emily Newell Blair of Missouri To Publish Views on Success of Nineteenth Amendment; Says She Is Discouraged with Result.

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19—Emily Newell Blair, who campaigned for suffrage in Missouri back in 1914, is "frankly quite discouraged about women in politics."

She made this known today in her contribution—the first pessimistic one
—to a fat compendium of opinions
on women and the ballot gathered by the league of women voters to mark
the tenth birthday of feminine suffrage in America.

To Publish Views

All these views, gathered from notables of both sexes, are to be published for the anniversary on Aug. 26, of the signing by former Secretary of State Cady of the proclamation that actually culminated
the movement.

"I am afraid," Mrs. Blair said, "the suffragists have made the same mistake as the temperance group. Both of them thought that with their victory they had only to defend their position; and so, as the Women's Christian Temperance Union stopped

its educational work for temperance and devoted itself to claiming the Eighteenth amendment worked, so the suffragists stopped their educational work of convincing people that women had a right to equality and devoted themselves to other interests."

Mary E. Woolley, president of Mount Holyoke college, said:

"The granting of suffrage to women
has not brought about the millennium,
but it has meant a decided step toward better government. . . . There are indifferent citizens among women as among men, but the addition of women
certainly has meant a large increase in the number of citizens who are both conscientious and intelligent."

Baker's Statement

Said Newton D. Baker, former war
secretary: "The years of experience
under the nineteenth amendment are not enough to enable me to express
any positive judgments as to the use which women in general have made
of their suffrage privilege."

He added, however, that educational processes women have set up to train
themselves seemed to him "admirable
in spirit and accomplishment," and that "a great question of political right was settled."

Mrs. Raymond Brown, editor of the Women's Journal, gave as her opinion
that "both men and women are questioning government processes and are watching the actions of elected officials as they never used to do," and that "political party committees and candidates have frequently been embarrassed and sometimes incensed
at the questions women have showered
on them."

Mrs. Franklin Roosevelt said women had made "a contribution to better government," and that "wherever they have taken part in local politics, there is no question but what the general standards have gone up." She contended "the percentage of those who use their suffrage is probably about equal now to the percentage of men who use theirs."

Is Announced at Dinner

MR. AND MRS. F. A. SCHROETER of 357 North Prospect street, announce the engagement and coming marriage of their daughter Miss Hildred Schroeter to Robert Barnwell of Dayton. The wedding will take place this month at St. Joseph's cathedral in Columbus. Mr. and Mrs. Schroeter entertained with a family dinner Sunday at their home, honoring their daughter and her fiancé.

MISS CHARLOTTE KRAMER, a bride of next month, was complimented when members of the Three D's club met last night at the home of Miss Trella Minard of Chestnut street. Orchid and green, Miss Kramer's bridal colors, predominated in the decorations throughout the rooms and for an attractively appointed luncheon. A gift, an electric clock, was found in the basement by the honor guest after her quest, guided by a ribbon, led her through the rooms and into the yard. Two tables were filled for bridge, awards for scores going to Miss Thelma Barton and Miss Pauline Foreman. The club will meet the first Monday in October with Miss Margaret Williams of Grand avenue.

Marion Couple Weds
in Cleveland Church

The marriage of Miss Helen L. Siffritt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Siffritt of 617 Delaware avenue, and William H. Deibert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Deibert of 133 Homer street, was solemnized at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon at Evangelical Presbyterian church in Cleveland. They were accompanied by Miss Virginia Bege of Shaker Heights, and Robert Siffritt, brother of the bride. Mr. and Mrs. Deibert will reside on South Grand avenue. Both Mr. Deibert and his bride are graduates of Harding high school. Mrs. Deibert is employed at the Marion County bank.

Birthday Party
Given Yesterday

Mrs. Rhodes McCoy entertained a party of small friends yesterday afternoon at her home at 203 Edwards street, in honor of the second birthday anniversary of her daughter Billie Dejon. Lunch was served at a table centered with a birthday cake with two lighted candles. Mrs. Clayton Dixon assisted Mrs. McCoy in serving. Little McCoy received several gifts from her friends. The afternoon was spent with games and contests. Those present included Mrs. Charles Burke and daughter Barbara, Jean and Peggy Lou, Mrs. Florian Carey and daughters Ruth Maxine and Mary Evelyn, Mrs. Wayne Bleece and daughter Helen Lucille, Shirley Mae McCoy, Mrs. McKinstry, Miss Katherine Minard and Miss Dorothy Morrison.

Birthdays Celebrated
Honors Miss Gettys

Miss Doris Gettys of 515 Avondale avenue, was the honor guest at a surprise party Sunday night in honor of her birthday anniversary. The evening was spent socially and with music and games. Mrs. M. E. Gettys, mother of the honor guest, was assisted in serving refreshments by Miss Gertrude Bihler. Guests included Miss Bihler, Misses Harriet McBride, Lola Mae Traxler, Mary Moss, Louise Ribson and Ronald Bihler, Arthur Dennison, Clifford Bihler, Paul McBride, Rolla Hite, LaVon Thompson and James Jamison.

Children Are Guests
at Birthday Party

Mrs. Martin H. Groman entertained a group of children yesterday afternoon at her home, 945 Linapier avenue, in honor of the eighth birthday anniversary of her daughter Theodora. The guests enjoyed an afternoon of games and contests and a feature of the luncheon was a birthday cake lighted with eight candles. Mrs. Groman was assisted in serving the luncheon by Miss Margaret Neimeyer. Guests included Jimmy McGraff, Idella McGraff, Ernest Osborn, Helen and Helma Nickel, Maxine Janshey, Genevieve and Geraldine Young, Irene and Bertha Reck, Arlene, Eugene and Dorothy Wonniger, Edward and Frank Ebert, Marjorie Williamson, Olaf Garbisher and Helen, Mildred and Bucky Groman.

Marion Couple Celebrate
50th Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. David Hazelton, for the last two years residents at 197 Park boulevard, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Sunday. Their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Grubbaugh of 570 and West Columbia street, entertained at the Grubbaugh home, for the many Marion and Delaware friends of the celebrating couple.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Hazelton are active in spite of their advanced years. Mr. Hazelton is nearly 82 years old. He was born in Liberty township to William and Anne Hazelton, and was married Aug. 19, 1880, in Delaware to Miss Edna Adella Havens, daughter of George and Esther Havens. Mrs. Hazelton was born in Berlin township 75 years ago. The late Rev. Sherwood read the marriage ceremony.

Four daughters were born to them. Blanche died in infancy and Allie died 21 years ago. The two surviving daughters are Mrs. Grubbaugh at whose home the golden wedding party was given and Mrs. Lyndie Hunter of 197 Park boulevard. Five grandchildren are living.

Mr. and Mrs. Hazelton were lifelong residents of Delaware county until two years ago when they moved here.

Eighty-one relatives and friends were present for a catered dinner at the noon hour. A feature of the dinner was a gold and white bride cake topped by a miniature bride and bridegroom. The guests of honor received many gifts.

The afternoon and evening were spent in contests, honors going to David Hazelton, Mrs. George Seckinger, Mrs. Bryan Hazelton, Mrs. Raymond Rodman, Lyndie Hunter, Dorothy Grubbaugh and Paul Burchette.

Guests from Delaware were Mrs. Wayne Hazelton, Mr. and Mrs. George Hazelton and daughter, Mrs. Mary Shaw and family, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Conway and son, Mr. and Mrs. John Hazelton, Mr. and Mrs. George Hazelton, Mr. and Mrs. William Hill, Farmer, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Cartzmaier and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Jones and son, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Easterday and family, Mr. and Mrs.

Dagger

ROMANCE AND ADVENTURES OF A DARING TEXAS GIRL

Copyright 1930, Duffield & Company

CHAPTER 24

Dagger enters Paris Society. He was in respect in Dick Wall's office as he spoke of Dag. The princess is the youngest general in French service, one of the most brilliant men in the country. He could do anything in politics, if he cared for anything of the kind. I've met him. He's a real sportsman, Dagger. He's a real person, and she'll spot you for one, too. Second, she's calling because her nephew asked her to—and that means he's interested in you, which means he considers you as good as himself.

"How you talk, Dicky," Dagger protested. "Why, I've only seen the man once."

"That makes no difference. You don't realize how these Europeans do things, especially a man of this stamp, who considers himself quite as good as any sovereign, from the point of lineage. Make up your mind to it that you have a suitor."

"I won't do anything of the kind. It's ridiculous. Just because he likes to talk to me is no reason for supposing him infatuated."

Dick's laugh was indulgent this time.

"No Frenchman permits himself to be infatuated, Dagger. Not if he asks his senior female relative to invite you to call. That means just one thing: he thinks you are eligible for whatever he has to offer you. These affairs are very delicate. There is a great deal involved. You must meet all the relations. You must be elaborately entertained. And you'll probably like it. There isn't a worthier man in Europe than de Pontoise."

"But I haven't the slightest idea of marrying."

"Not now, perhaps. But wait and see," Dick advised kindly.

As a consequence of her conversation with Dick, she had difficulty in restraining her self-consciousness that afternoon when her car rolled into the courtyard of the grey Hotel de Pontoise with its crested gate posts scarred by the fury of revolutionary mobs.

she rattled on as she sat down: "I, also, am one who judges in a flash. You are different from most of the Americans one meets, Madame Vaneering, different from most of your generation. But how young you are! A child, yet Raoul accords you the mind of a statesman."

"I hope you won't believe that of me," replied Dagger. "I am very young, princess."

"A woman's years have little to do with her mind," pronounced the princess. "And to be aware of youth is to discount its fallacies. But tell me of your upbringing. I was so charmed when Raoul said that you had been a cowgirl, reared amongst Indians and bandits. Ah, but here is Raoul now."

De Senac entered quickly, strode across to his aunt, kissed her cheek, then wheeled and approached Dagger, bowing as he kissed her hand.

"We are glad you were free to come," he said. "Are we not, ma tante?"

"I am," said the princess. "I find Madame Vaneering most refreshing after the shallow young persons our encounters so frequently."

"I find it as if we had known each other before," he said, smiling at Dagger. "There is a strange sense of familiarity."

Dagger returned his smile.

"In a sense you are right, Monsieur le Duc. For I knew of you years ago."

"Not from my husband. Do you remember Blaine Howard?"

"But of course!"

And the princess exclaimed:

"The wanderer! Ah, that Monsieur Howard! Whenever he came to Paris, he and Raoul would sit up the night long, and talk—and talk. Of what? I would demand in the morning. Of philosophy, they would say, of life! Her eyes flitted bird-like over Dagger's features. "You knew him before the war."

"Three years ago—or a little more," Dagger answered, hoping that she was not blushing too obviously.

"You must have been a mere child, my dear. Did he notice you?"

"Madame Vaneering is one Blaine would have noticed at any age," de Senac replied to his aunt before Dagger could speak. "I am sure you had much in common, Madame."

"We did," Dagger admitted, frowning at her renewed self-consciousness. "He—he was very kind to me. I was fond of him."

"A glorious fellow," said de Senac. "Honorable. Intelligent. Eager to know the inwardness of things. I miss him, Madame. Of course, you know of his death?"

Dagger inclined her head.

"I heard—at the time," she replied, speaking low.

"Poor child," exclaimed the Princess. "You have seen over much of death, for one so young. Let me talk of something more cheerful—as, shall we say, when you could come to dine with us? You would care to meet some of our friends? Yes?"

"It is lovely of you to ask me," returned Dagger. "But you must suit your convenience. My time is unoccupied."

"Shall we say tomorrow evening?" interjected de Senac.

Dagger looked at the princess, who eyed her nephew ironically.

"My faith, you are abrupt, Raoul," chided the old lady. "What do you think, Madame Vaneering?"

"I should be delighted to come."

"Are there, perhaps, some mutual friends we might ask with you?" inquired the princess. "To relieve the strain of meeting so many strange faces?"

Dagger hesitated.

"I know Lord and Lady Wenlock," she answered. "Lord Wenlock was with my uncle in Texas for some years."

"Both the others nodded."

"Wenlock I know fairly well," said de Senac. "A charming man, Madame."

"And I know, too, his wife," asserted the princess. "But here is our tea. Madame Vaneering, you must tell me of your Texas."

For two months Dagger moved in the highest circles of Parisian society, sheltered by the Duc de Pontoise and his aunt. She was very happy. Raoul de Senac was a man whose attentions must have honored any woman. There was no feeling of sex in her attitude toward the Frenchman; he functioned in her thoughts merely as a friend. And if the ardency of his gaze at times accentuated the studied courtesy of his actions, she willfully shut her eyes to the implications thus conveyed. She wanted de Senac for a friend; she didn't want him for a lover. So she was more surprised, perhaps, than she had a right to be when the Princess Rakowski assailed her quite directly one afternoon as they were driving in the Bois.

When I had let Jubilee down and done all the work there was to do and we had all taken the cows out and we started to go out past Stranahan's for a swim in the river but the girls had to come along so we didn't go in after all.

When we got up the river there was a high bank straight up, and down in the river there was a log with two soft shell turtles asleep on it and they were tucked up so they stayed there and we thought we would make a big splash and scare them. There was a hardy lift, and me and Nibs are the strongest so we got bold of it together and swung it back and forth between us, and I counted three and we flung it as far as we could, but instead of landing in the river and making a splash it came down square on the back of the both turtles and busted both of them.

Herewith is the solution to yesterday's puzzle.

In anyone any harm and it is wrong to kill anything except to eat, and they all honored me and asked me if I was getting to be a sis. I just looked at them and asked them if any of them thought I was, but none of them said anything. I am sorry we done it, but I bet the turtles were surprised all right.

On the way home we went in a lot where some men were driving some stakes to mark where they were going to build a house, and a big rabbit jumped out of a hollow and skunk out with the dogs after it, and we looked in the hole and there were three baby rabbits about as big as my first, so we are going partnership with them.

We took them to Frenchy's and put them in where he had the squirrel, and he got a medicine dropper and poured some milk in a saucer and we fed them milk a drop at a time. Then we filled their box with grass and went and played ball till Nibs lammed the ball through a lady's window and skunk out, and the lady said she was going to tell our fathers on us, and she said she would burn the ball up. So then we went out in the country and were setting in a vineyard eating some grapes when the owner turned right into the row where we were, and that row fitted us like a corset whilst we were trying to get out, but we got out, all but the girls, and they said we certainly did scold them. I would hate to be the kind of a man that would scold girls.

When I had let Jubilee down and done all the work there was to do and we had all taken the cows out and we started to go out past Stranahan's for a swim in the river but the girls had to come along so we didn't go in after all.

When we got up the river there was a high bank straight up, and down in the river there was a log with two soft shell turtles asleep on it and they were tucked up so they stayed there and we thought we would make a big splash and scare them. There was a hardy lift, and me and Nibs are the strongest so we got bold of it together and swung it back and forth between us, and I counted three and we flung it as far as we could, but instead of landing in the river and making a splash it came down square on the back of the both turtles and busted both of them.

Love's Reawakening

A Wife's Triumph Over Jealousy

BY ANITA GARRISON

Madre's Conversation with Edith Proves a Battle of Wits

WHEN Julian was safely on her way back to the hotel—she had decided that she would not wait for me to interview the doctor—I felt very much in the position of a person who has sold the handles to a pair of electric batteries and cannot let go. I had wanted so much to make Mary the center of things at her party, to give her the good time she never had had, that I had forgotten what effect her probable popularity might have upon Marie's enjoyment of the party.

I was fairly confident that Ronald's devotion to Marie had insularized him against all other feminine charms. But—after all—I reflected—one cannot predict how any young man may react to novelty—or any older one either—I finished a bit grimly. And I felt that I should never forgive myself, if my seal for Mary resulted in even temporary unhappiness for Marie.

Edith Fairfax Sinks

But, I also reminded myself, there was no shadow of use in worrying about it. What would be would be, and I had enough to do before being able to keep every moment of my time occupied. So I resolutely locked away all worried speculation concerning Ronald's possible behavior, and hurried to the florist's. He was so efficient and had such charming things that I was able to expedite my ordering and went away with his solemn promise to be at the hotel, ready to decorate the rooms at 2 o'clock exactly.

I attended to another errand, and then went to a telephone booth and called up Edith Fairfax, first at her apartment, and then, after no response, at the office of the magazine whose management she shared with Dicky. When the office girl had called her to the telephone her voice was distinctly sulky beneath its veneer of politeness.

"Lo, Madre! Where's that good-for-nothing husband of yours? The low-life promised me he'd be down early this morning, and I ask you, just look at the clock."

"Why ask me?" I retorted sweetly. "I'm far away from the hotel, and I've been up for hours. I'd like to haul Dicky out for you, but it's impossible at this distance. Besides, I value my peace of mind, and I don't envy anybody who tries to wake him before noon."

"Noon?" she echoed, shrilly. "That means he won't be down here until after luncheon. If he comes at all. Well! I just see myself standing for that. I'm going to ring the hotel now, and tell the operator to get the buzzer on your phone and keep it there until someone answers."

"I'm sorry, Edith, but I cannot permit you to do that," I said firmly. "You see, Mary is also asleep in the apartment, and I cannot have her disturbed. Indeed, it would do you no good to ring, for I gave orders before I left that the operator was not to ring the apartment, but was to take all messages until I return."

"All right, Protector of the Faithful!" she glibbed. "I'll get by alone. But the Lord help the Dicky-bird when I'm away."

Here is the solution to yesterday's puzzle.

In anyone any harm and it is wrong to kill anything except to eat, and they all honored me and asked me if I was getting to be a sis. I just looked at them and asked them if any of them thought I was, but none of them said anything. I am sorry we done it, but I bet the turtles were surprised all right.

On the way home we went in a lot where some men were driving some stakes to mark where they were going to build a house, and a big rabbit jumped out of a hollow and skunk out with the dogs after it, and we looked in the hole and there were three baby rabbits about as big as my first, so we are going partnership with them.

We took them to Frenchy's and put them in where he had the squirrel, and he got a medicine dropper and poured some milk in a saucer and we fed them milk a drop at a time. Then we filled their box with grass and went and played ball till Nibs lammed the ball through a lady's window and skunk out, and the lady said she was going to tell our fathers on us, and she said she would burn the ball up. So then we went out in the country and were setting in a vineyard eating some grapes when the owner turned right into the row where we were, and that row fitted us like a corset whilst we were trying to get out, but we got out, all but the girls, and they said we certainly did scold them. I smiled to myself at the thought which was so vivid in her mind. She believed that Philip Veritren had singled her out for special attention, and through pique had given me the message to deliver to her. She believed that she could make me uncomfortable by scoring the courtesy.

"You're named it correctly," I said smoothly. "It is a big idea. He has asked to be told the color of every gown to be worn tonight, and he intends to send a bouquet for each."

She was silent for the space of a second. Then she laughed.

"And what does the Dicky-bird say to such munificence as that?" she asked, unpleasantly.

Hers to Command

An army to set her table

When the housewife tells A & P her needs—by her purchases in its stores—an army of men, trained to obey her will, stands at command.

And because great numbers of women who like good things and good values trade in A & P stores, the order of one housewife becomes the order of many. A vast association of housewives, A & P's customers, thus grows out of a single aim—good food at least cost.

The whole A & P army is at their command, and the buying of all these housewives—massed to serve each—gives to all the pick of every crop, of every food.

Growers and manufacturers know that only their best products at fair prices will satisfy this large body of consumers. In return, these industries are assured of regular sales of their goods.

So the housewife who shops at A & P is certain of the best; while her steady, thrifty buying supports honest food industries in every part of the country.

In shopping to her own advantage, she is helping the food producer.

CORN FLAKES

BECAUSE Kellogg's Corn Flakes are the most popular ready-to-eat cereal in the world, they have been imitated.

Sometimes these imitations are offered you as "just like Kellogg's."

Such statements are false. Here's why:

—No other corn flakes have ever duplicated the matchless Kellogg flavor.

—No other has the same crisp, crackly flakes.

—None can have the patented inner-seal waste wrapper that keeps Kellogg's always inner-fresh.

These are reasons why more people prefer Kellogg's than all other corn flakes combined. They have won this popularity—not because they were the first corn flakes—but because they are the best liked corn flakes.

Insist upon genuine Kellogg's. Enjoy them for breakfast or lunch these hot days. A wonderfully cooling dish with milk or cream—fresh or canned fruits added. Also fine for the children's evening meal. They are so light and easy to digest. At all grocers—in the familiar red-and-green packages.

IMPORTANT! Kellogg makes only one brand of corn flakes. Any other offered to you with the statement "they are made by Kellogg"—are mislabeled. Kellogg Company, Battle Creek, Mich.

Always inspect the seal on the inner seal wrapper. If it is broken, the flakes are stale.

Insist upon genuine Kellogg's. Enjoy them for breakfast or lunch these hot days. A wonderfully cooling dish with milk or cream—fresh or canned fruits added. Also fine for the children's evening meal. They are so light and easy to digest. At all grocers—in the familiar red-and-green packages.

$10,000 Blaze Sweeps Bucyrus Airport; Two Planes Burn

BELIEVE FIRE INCENDIARY
Flames Consume Buildings. Auto, with Ships; Discovered by Neighbors.

Special To The Star
BUCYRUS, Aug. 19—Bucyrus is left today without air facilities as the result of a $10,000 fire which totally destroyed Bucyrus Airport south of the city shortly after midnight this morning. Deputy Fire Marshal Jack Scheebl, with local authorities, is investigating the fire which is thought to have been of incendiary origin. Destroyed with the airport were the two Waco planes belonging to Miss Lauretta Schimmoler, local aviatrix, whose plane was brought here last week, and a plane belonging to L. H. McBride, which has been used at the port for general passenger service by Newton Priddy, pilot, since the destruction of his ship in an accident several weeks ago. A Chevrolet coupe belonging to Priddy was also destroyed.

Bucyrus voters last November voted a $40,000 bond issue for a municipal airport upon which the city council has held up action since.

The fire was discovered by the M. W. Campbell family across the road. The center of the building where the planes were kept was ablaze and the roof at the center already had fallen in when the flames were first seen.

The telephone at the Campbell residence was put out of service by the fire, preventing them from making the alarm known immediately. The fire, however, was beyond control at this time.

The airport buildings were the property of M. I. Glazier of Sycamore, who brought the Bucyrus Airways School here about two years ago. Glazier was not actively engaged here.

COUNCIL ASKS FOR $31,243

Mt. Gilead Budget for 1930 Approved by Aldermen; Zoning Ordinance Heard.

Special To The Star
MT. GILEAD, Aug. 19—A budget totaling $31,243 was submitted to the council by the finance committee Monday night. The budget is slightly larger than last year's budget. The budget as submitted was approved by the council and will be presented to the county budget commission for approval.

Approximately $10,000 of the amount will be derived from a three-mill levy passed at the last election. In order to pay for the new fire truck recently purchased, $8,000 was transferred from the service fund to the safety fund. In order to keep the budget total down to near last year's figure, the sinking fund levy was cut from $10,000 to $5,000 this year. With the balance on hand the total sinking fund will be ample for the retirement of bonds.

Budget in Detail
The detailed budget follows: General fund; salaries of city officials, $1,408; safety fund; police, $1,450; firemen, $100; apparatus, $6,000; buildings, $75; apparatus, $50; street repair, $200; service fund; street repair, $4,000; cleaning, $500; lighting, $3,000; water, $3,000; sewer and drainage, $5,000; sidewalks and crossings, $300; parks and fountains, $100; hall, $200; contingent, $1,000; sinking fund, $5,000.

The council allowed the bill of $35,600 for the new fire truck and approved other bills.

Committee Gets Ordinance
An ordinance regulating the building of garages and filling stations in the residential districts was referred to the ordinance committee because it did not define residential districts. The ordinance will prohibit building filling stations in the residential districts unless the consent of all property owners within a radius of 500 feet is obtained.

Martin Flavin of Flavin Bros., owners of a filling station on East Union street was present at the council meeting to reach an agreement with the council relative to the land needed there for street purposes.

Flavin made a direct compensation and an agreement was reached whereby the council granted Flavin Bros. an easement of 1 1/2 feet of the right of way and agreed to bear the expense of moving the station back if necessary.

Mayor Young appointed the new councilman Lloyd Dye to serve on all committees of which Young was a member before assuming the mayoralty.

Former Kenton Instructor Rescued Liner Passenger

KENTON, Aug. 19—Included among the 173 passengers who were taken off the Australian passenger liner Tahiti in a thrilling sea rescue approximately 450 miles from Karama in the Cook Islands in the Pacific, was Miss Tee Doll, 52, of Los Angeles, a native of Kenton and former prominent instructor in the local schools.

Information that the former Kenton lady was aboard the liner bound for San Francisco out of Wellington, New Zealand is published in reports from Los Angeles that declared three women educators and a clergyman from that city were aboard the Tahiti.

FARM CROPS ARE DAMAGED

Survey Shows Heavy Loss from Drouth in Morrow County District.

Special To The Star
MT. GILEAD, Aug. 19—R. L. Bazler, Morrow county farm agent, has sent out a questionnaire to 75 representative farmers throughout the county to determine the effects of the continued drouth which is causing farmers uncountried millions in defective crops throughout the entire county.

The questionnaire was sent out to get actual figures. Specific questions were asked concerning crop conditions. As summarized by Mr. Bazler, the cards returned show that all crops have been affected by the lack of rainfall.

The hay crop is only 50 per cent of normal. The corn is damaged even more, farmers estimating that only 37 per cent of a normal crop will be harvested. The oats crop is only 80 per cent normal and the wheat only 74 per cent.

Other roughage will be used by 80 per cent of the farmers to replace hay and approximately half of the farmers expect to buy additional grain to take the place of the loss in the own crop. At least one-third have found it necessary to sell some livestock due to feed shortage.

Approximately 15 per cent have had to haul water for their stock and about three per cent have hauled water for home use.

Almost one out of every five farmers indicated that they would use some form of extended credit to buy feed and finance their other operations.

SCHOOL TO OPEN AT MT. VICTORY SEPT. 8

New Superintendent and Teachers Employed for Year; 296 Pupils Expected.

MT. VICTORY, Aug. 19—The Mt. Victory public school will open this year at 9 a. m. Sept. 8. It was announced by Supt. Don Piers. According to enumeration reports 296 are of school age in the Mt. Victory district. Of these 66 are to be enrolled in high school, and 230 in the grades. Of the total, 175 will be hauled in five school motor buses. Drivers of buses are: Carvel Winder, Walter Thompson, Pearl Corder, Otto Mouser, and Lloyd Schertzer. John McCall has been hired as janitor. School books can be obtained from the Kenneth Williams store.

Superintendent From Rushsylvania
Supt. Don Piers comes to Mt. Victory from Rushsylvania, having taught there 11 years. Miss Olga Hanson of Columbus, a former teacher at Rushsylvania, was hired to fill vacancy caused by resignation of Mrs. Gordon Southwick. She will teach English, Latin and coach girls' teams.

Change Teaching System
Miss Fink of Keaton, was recently hired to fill vacancy made by resignation of Miss Ruby Shadley from second grade. Miss Frances Shadley who has taught the third and fourth grades for 6 years has been transferred to the second grade.

Several changes have been made in the high school, among which is the establishment of a laboratory in the room formerly used by the home economics class. The room used by Miss Helen Williams will be used for home economics and a part of school auditorium will be used for study hall, and class room. A general change in the system of teaching will be made in all departments, according to Supt. Piers.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday from the Brindley mortuary with Rev. G. L. Burghard in charge. Interment will be in Grove cemetery.

ASKS NULLIFICATION OF TOWNSHIP VOTE

Defeated Candidate To Protest Nomination of Rival at Primaries.

By The Associated Press
BUCYRUS, O., Aug. 19—Because Republican judges in last week's primaries cast their ballots for his opponent for the Democratic nomination for Crawford county commissioner, Clarence Oberlander, defeated candidate, today announced he had engaged attorneys to institute a motion to have all the ballots from Lykens township nullified.

Oberlander was defeated for the nomination by Nelson Geiger by 46 votes.

In Lykens township, where Geiger had a majority of 126 to 366, the Republican judges, Oberlander said, voted for Geiger.

This, he contended, was illegal. If votes from this township are disregarded, Oberlander will win Democratic nomination as county commissioner.

WOMAN ESCAPES AS GAS IN CAN BURNS

House, Contents Damaged When Flames Spread to Kitchen Porch.

Special To The Star
GALION, Aug. 19—The Galion fire department was called out Monday afternoon to the home of W. A. Beck, 256 Jefferson street.

Mrs. Beck had been filling her gasoline stove when the gasoline can caught fire. She threw the can out on to the back porch which also became ignited. The back porch burned quickly and most of the kitchen was destroyed by the fire. The remainder of the home was saved. Mrs. Beck was not injured when the can caught fire. Some of the kitchen furniture was saved but most of it was burned. Loss caused by the fire was estimated at $450 for the house and $450 for the contents. The loss was covered by insurance.

GALION WOMAN TO TEACH AT MT. GILEAD

Mrs. Howard Evans Employed as Music Instructor; Announce Registration Days.

Special To The Star
MT. GILEAD, Aug. 19—Mrs. Howard Evans of Galion has been employed by the Mt. Gilead board of education as instructor of all vocal music in the schools. It was announced by H. L. Ford, superintendent of the public schools. Mrs. Evans will also have charge of music instruction in the thieria schools this year.

Joyce Crimm of Marion, who has directed the Boy Scout band in the weekly concerts this summer, has been employed to teach instrumental music.

The following Mt. Gilead teachers have recently returned from various summer schools: L. E. Powell and Miss Mildred Reed, Ohio State University; Albert Liggett, University of Cincinnati; Mrs. Carrie Chase, Miss Gayle Hinchey, and Miss Aubrey Jenkins, Ashland college; Miss Thelma Caris, Bowling Green; and Miss Esther Wagner, Kent State College.

Superintendent Ford announces that Thursday and Friday will be registration days for out-of-town students and new students locally. All will be required to register who expect to enter the schools here and who have not previously registered. All pupils who in school here last year have registered.

Any student who wishes to make changes in their schedules are required to go to the high school on one of these days. Mr. Ford and other members of the faculty will take up the changes with the students.

BONDSMEN'S HEARING DELAYED BY COURT

Inability of Attorneys To Attend Scheduled Motion Results in Postponement.

Special To The Star
BUCYRUS, Aug. 19—Hearing on the motion to quash summons of the application filed recently by Wilbur Haud's bondsmen, H. N. Oberlander and George Hines, asking that they be released from the $25,750 judgment ordered paid by the supreme court, was postponed until Aug. 25 upon request of attorneys. The hearing was scheduled for Monday.

In the meantime Deputy Sheriff Arthur Stuckert is preparing an estimate on the value of all furnishings of the Highway Hotel, upon which a levy was made last week, with a view of advertising the goods for public sale.

One Man Injured as Car Is Wrecked in Ditch

BUCYRUS, Aug. 19—One man was severely hurt and bruised in an accident on the Lincoln Highway four miles east of Bucyrus Monday about 3:30 p. m., when Mrs. James Mitchell, Pittsburg, Pa., who was driving the car, lost control, allowing the car to crash into a ditch.

Mitchell was taken to Monnett Memorial hospital. He was released after having his wounds dressed. Other members of the party, Mr. Mitchell's brother and a niece, also of Pittsburg escaped injury.

CHURCH CHAMPS OPEN SERIES FRIDAY

ROUNDHOUSE, KAPPAS TO PLAY IN SECOND TILT MONDAY, AUG. 25

Norris Crissinger Named Umpire-in-Chief for Annual Fall Classic.

BY BOB ELLIOTT
Calvary and Lee Street, champions of the two Church leagues, will open play in Marion's 1936 Little World Series at 6 p. m. Friday. This date was set to start the series at a meeting of the commission with the managers of the four participating teams at the Y. M. C. A. last night. The Roundhouse, champions of the Industrial league, and odd-on favorites to cop the city championship, tackle the uncertain Kappa outfit in the second game Monday, Aug. 25. The two winners then play on Wednesday and the two losers on Friday. The fifth game of the series will be played on Tuesday, Sept. 2, and the sixth if necessary on Sept. 4. If a seventh game is necessary to decide the title it will probably be played the first of the third week or on Sept. 8.

Start at 6 p. m.
It was also decided that due to the shortening of the playing time the games would be started at 6 p. m. prompt instead of the usual 6:15. And from the way President Norris Crissinger talked it appeared rather certain that these games are going to start at 6 p. m. and not 6:05.

The umpires were chosen without any hesitation by the four managers. Norris Crissinger was appointed umpire in chief with full power to place other three umpires chosen to work with Crissinger in the series. Paul Rice, Bert Curtis, and Ray Smallwood. If it is possible to get all four men out to each game all four will be used, Crissinger said, thus eliminating a lot of chafing about the diamond during the play by the umpires.

The commission also voted to give individual medals to the members of team winning the city championship instead of the customary loving cup. It was believed that these would be appreciated more by the players as the cup is kept only by one man, the manager. The purchasing committee composed of Earl Smart, chairman, Leo Keller, and William Fabian was named by President Crissinger to look after the purchasing of the trophies. Pennants will be awarded as usual to the four league winners.

Mann Speaks
At the opening of the commission meeting Dr. E. H. Mann, president of the park board, asked the commission to devise some way of getting enough money to erect bleachers at President's Field. He said that the park board had already exceeded its allowance in putting the playing field in shape and that it will be up to the commission to finish the job of putting up the bleachers.

Although no immediate action was taken the commission it assured Dr. Mann that the bleachers would be built. It is hardly probable that any definite action will be taken on this before the new commission for 1937 is appointed next spring.

Mr. Crissinger also announced a meeting of the managers and captains of the four pennant winners with the four umpires of the series Thursday night at the Y. M. C. A. This meeting will be for the purpose of interpreting all rules that may be doubtful in the minds of any of the managers or captains.

Martin Shines as Local All-Star Team Whips Crestline, 10 to 4

Which One of These Is Your Choice?

BELOW are the probable starting lineups of the four teams that will battle for the city recreation ball championship in the Little World Series soon. H. Richards, Fadley and C. Burke are the other Lee Street pitchers. Lyle Messenger may do mound duty for Calvary while Shoemaker is almost sure to do all the Roundhouse pitching. The Kappas present the most formidable hurling corps with Howard Zuspan, Roy Rice and Roscoe Rank.

Pos.	Lee Street	Calvary	Roundhouse	Kappas
Catcher	Conkle	Courtney	A. J. Hinklin	G. Hinklin
Pitcher	Crabtree	Gruber	Shoemaker	Rank-Rice

ENGLISH STAR WINS FIRST ROUND MATCH, LOOMS AS FAVORITE

However Betty Finds at Least Six Formidable Foes in Path Yet.
FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 10.—"Betty Nuthall" is the cry which reverberates through the Forest Hills stadium today as the 32 survivors in the forty-third annual annual women's tennis championships resume play in the second round. For seven long years, the cry was "Betty Nuthall" but with little real hope in it.

There is a ring of hope, however. In the new rallying call. For at least a half a dozen of the stars who survived their first-round tests. It is a cheer, urging them onward to further conquests. While on the way to their meetings with "Bouncing Betty" they sharpen their weapons for their attacks on the English star.

Betty looked good yesterday trouncing Louise McFarland of Pasadena, 6-0, 6-1 in the first round. She hit harder, her service was more severe, her backhand was greatly improved over her performances here in 1927 and 1929.

But she is no Helen Wills. Queen Helen would probably have smothered Miss McFarland with the loss of perhaps half a dozen points in each set. "The English girl is vulnerable—no doubt about that."

This afternoon Betty meets a rival who may well force her to drop more than one game before she finally comes through the victor. In Mrs. Agnes Lammie, Jr. of the Apawamis club, the English star opposes a veteran of the courts.

Cullop Breaks Home Run Record with 43rd Clout

By The Associated Press
COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 10.—A new home record today had settled down on the horizon of the American Association for Nick Cullop cracked out his 43rd homer of the season yesterday.

The great clout, which killed Bunney Brief's 1921 record of 42, helped Minneapolis take a swatting bee from Toledo 14 to 10.

SPORT RAMBLINGS

BY BOB ELLIOTT
THE big clash for the cellar championship comes off today with Central Christians and Epworth Juniors as the clasher. The loser goes back to the No. 2 league and the winner stays in the No. 1 loop and with the success these two teams have had this season in the No. 1 league (they won six games between them) they think they'd both be only too glad of the chance to get back in the No. 2 loop. We pick Christians to win and offer the batting averages of the Epworth Juniors for the entire season as just released by Robert Kirkpatrick, chief statistician as evidence. The team average is the imposing count of 246 while Bud Cram and Harold Henry are the only men hitting above 300. Cram hitting 400 even and Henry 322. The next high is 243. Nuff sed.

Calvary gets a distinct break as a result of the draw in the Little World series starting Friday. Although forced to play the first game they drew Lee Street, admittedly the weakest team in the series, for their opponents. By doing this they forced the Kappas and Felo Roundhouse to meet in a clash between two of the strongest teams. Calvary should win but the No. 2 champs say they're not beaten by a long way and they may be right. Stranger things have happened. Oscar, much stranger. According to the manager, Carl Fadley will probably open the series for Lee Street on the mound. Gruber will oppose him.

THE second game should be a real battle and will see the old play re-enacted of a good hitting team with a mediocre pitcher meeting a fair hitting team with a staff of good moundmen. Roy Rice is expected to face the Roundhouse in an attempt to mark up a victory for the fraternity boys. If the "Kaps" lose this opening clash they become an almost sure bet to become the second team to be eliminated. It looks like it just can't miss being Calvary and the Roundhouse for the city championship. It should be a great series and one that should crack all attendance marks of past series games.

The author of this "column" and the four Little World Series umpires will meet Friday after the opening game for the purpose of naming the three all-city teams. Any man who failed to make one of his all-league teams will be ineligible to any of the all-city teams. A hot race over several of the positions on the first team is looming at present with all the infield positions with the possible exception of third base being open to a wide field. In picking the teams, hitting and defensive ability will be ranked about even and a player's ability to get along well with his teammates will also count strongly in his favor. The teams will be published in Monday's Star.

MEREDITH BEATEN
By International News Service
TOLEDO, O., Aug. 10.—The ring come-back of Lee Meredith of Toledo, was spoiled today as a result of his unsuccessful bout here last night with Charles Long, Los Angeles negro heavy. The fight was stopped by Referee Ollie Pecord in the second round as Long hammered his opponent unmercifully all over the ring. Meredith went down for two counts of nine in the first stanza of the bout.

YESTERDAY'S STARS
Hack Wilson, Cubs—Clouted Philly pitching for 42nd homer and three singles.
Irene Hadley, Senators—Held Tigers to six hits and beat them, 5-4.
Lou Gehrig, Yankees—Drove in three runs with two singles and 35th homer against White Sox.
George Earnshaw, Athletics—Pitched steady ball to turn back Browns, 6-4 and hang up 19th victory of season.
Dick Bartell, Pirates—Doubled with bases filled in ninth to drive in tying and winning runs against Robins.

JUDGE CLOUTS TWO HOME RUNS DURING CLASH AT GARFIELD

Gene Gunder Pitches Good Ball, Giving Up Six Hits in Tilt.

If any baseball fan in our fair city had the least doubt that Judge William R. Martin of the Municipal court didn't belong on the first all-city team it would have been dispelled forever had he seen the performance the Judge put on at Garfield Park yesterday during the clash between the Hamilton Red Feathers of Crestline and an all-star team from here gathered together by Marion Hinklin. All the Judge did was to sock two terrific home runs that left no doubt in the mind of Doc Johnson, the Crestline hurler, but that he was facing a Babe Ruth in disguise. Then just to show the boys he isn't slowing up any in the field Mr. Martin, who performs in left field, robbed Hiltgreder, the Crestline short-fielder of a hit in the seventh frame.

Here's the Score
Oh yes, if you're interested in how the ball game came out, Marion won 10 to 4 thanks to a five-run rally in the eighth that clinched the game for Gene Gunder. By the way this Gunder gentleman pitched a mighty sweet ball game, whiffing six of the visitors and walking only one. He gave up only six hits in the nine frames he worked. Johnson's opponent started out like a whirlwind, striking out five in the first two innings. However he weakened and whiffed only three men in the remaining seven innings and gave five base on balls, two of which resulted in runs.

The big eighth-inning rally of the locals started with Brahm drawing a walk, his second of the game. Kerr hit safely and Wilson punted Brahm with another bingle. Cram hit into left center scoring Kerr and then after Marshall had popped out, Martin connected with his second homer and Wilson and Cram ambled in with the Judge closed behind.

Three in Third
Three of the other Marion scores came in the third when Gunder walked, Cram bunted safely to first, Willie Baldaut hit, and Lamb dropped Niemeyer's long smash into left. Another came across in the sixth on hits by Brahm and Gunder. The final score was Martin's first homer into deep left center to open the seventh inning.

Crestline's big inning was the sixth when a hit, a fielder's choice, and another hit accounted for two runs. A walk and hit scored one in the first and two of Jimmy Kerr's three errors combined with a single by Stegman scored one in the fifth. Johnson, Crestline pitcher, and Cram, Kerr and Martin all collected two hits with the latter's two homers carrying away the honors. Walt Baldaut made one of best defensive plays of the game when he nailed Hiltgreder at third when the Crestline short-fielder tried to reach the hot corner on a bingle into right field.

Marion First Reformed church team won a six-inning tilt from St. John's Reformed club of Bucyrus at the Shovel diamond, 13 to 4. Six runs in the third and a half dozen more in the fifth clinched the win. Bucyrus ... 001 030—4
Marion ... 106 003—13
W. Clady, Heckler and Crall; Miley and Goertlich.

OUT OF LUCK

Eddie Kane and Mandell Break up Partnership.
By The Associated Press
CHICAGO, Aug. 18.—A contract with nearly a year to run, notwithstanding, Eddie Kane has had his last cut in former lightweight champion Sammy Mandell's earnings—as far as Mandell is concerned.
After nine years of association, Mandell and Kane broke up yesterday.
Kane announced that he no longer was the Rockford Shiek's manager, but would collect his share of the latter's purses until July 6, 1931, when their contract expires.
Mandell last night said Kane would get no more from him and that he would go to court to keep his money.

LOCAL MAN TAKES PRIZE IN TOURNEY

O. H. Gearhiser Places Second in Trap Shoot at Vandalia.

O. H. Gearhiser of 877 Bellefontaine avenue took second prize in the class E championship at the 31st annual Grand American handicap trap shoot tournament which completed its second day yesterday at the shooting grounds at Vandalia near Dayton. The shoot has attracted 500 of the country's best marksmen.

Gearhiser placed second to Nelson Jones of Newark, O., in the class E championship. Jones shot a 188 while Gearhiser's score was 182. Yesterday's shooting was the mature's day and both men and women participated. The tournament reaches its highlight Friday when the $10,000 Grand American Handicap will be held. Today's features include women's junior and sub-junior title shoots. Frank M. Troch of Portland, Ore., rang up a perfect score of 200 targets yesterday to win the class AA championship. E. F. Woodward of Houston, Texas, missed one shot and was second with 199, followed by Charles Bogert of Sandusky, O., with 198.
